

Cranston's aide listens to plight of elderly

Valley residents worry most about political issues involving senior citizens' affairs, according to Gerald Yoachum, a field representative of U. S. Senator Alan Cranston.

Yoachum visited Livermore and Pleasanton on Thursday and Friday during a two-week opinion-gathering tour of Alameda County, listening to local residents speak out on local and national issues.

"A few people came in to complain about their Social Security checks, getting an improper amount or not getting them on time," said Yoachum. Most of the senior citizens' complaints centered on issues of government-sponsored nutrition programs housing problems or economic binds.

Only 10 people came to Yoachum with their concerns in Livermore, and just five or six had seen him in Pleasanton on Friday.

A representative of the League of Women Voters came in to speak on various state and national issues. Her concerns will be written up by Yoachum and presented to Senator Cranston so he will see first-hand some of his constituents' views.

A man whose son was in the Marine Reserve and threatened with a dishonorable discharge spoke to Yoachum in desperate tones, hoping to prevent a life-long blot on his son's records. He was reassured that such a discharge was not likely in this case, and a case-study report would be made up and reviewed by a worker to follow through on the matter.

"People worry about the issues that affect them most, and these tend to be local issues. (Interstate) 580, BART expansion, environmental issues — these are most of the most frequently heard," said Yoachum.

"Many people talk to me in skeptical tones, wary of the government. They don't trust the IRS or CIA, and I guess they relate that to me," he said.

Some people come to Yoachum as a last resort, "figuring they have nothing to lose" by talking to him. Then there are the extremists.

"You will always run into the hell-raisers who picket City Hall and such. A lot of them are nuts, completely off the wall. I just let them talk," Yoachum said. He had run into no "nuts" in the Valley, however.

"Young people were mostly interested in the environmental problems. They talked of planned growth, which is really a totally local issue," he explained.

"People aren't very knowledgeable of how the different levels of government function. They complain about an issue when we have no jurisdiction whatsoever."

Yoachum, 29, got started setting educational programs for the United Nations when contacted by Cranston's office asking him to work for them. "We had had communications before on other matters, and came to know each other," Yoachum said.

He has traveled around the state for two years seeking other people's opinions on political matters to help Senator Cranston express his constituents' concerns to the U. S. Senate. Has it done any good?

"Cranston took around a resolution informing President Ford that the U.S. people wouldn't stand a limit of 5 per cent on Social Security increases. 51 Senators signed it, and as a result, an 8 per cent increase in Social Security monies takes effect July 1," Yoachum said.

Will Cranston seek a higher office?

"No way. He's totally immersed in being a Senator, and as long as he's physically able, he will stay there. And he's in better shape than I am," laughed Yoachum.

A little worse for wear

Brake failure on the northbound onramp to I-680 flipped this truck on its side early Friday morning. The driver, William Wood, 20, of Hayward, told The Times he applied his brakes as he started up the sharp, right hand curve, but the brake line ruptured and the truck turned over. Wood was taking a load of carpet padding from Oakland to Concord when the mishap occurred shortly after 9:30. California Department of Transportation personnel and a "very heavy duty" tow truck righted the 24-foot rig as Pleasanton firemen hosed down the gas. No one was injured.

Tiny district needs money

Sunol schools face critical test

SUNOL—The most crucial school tax measure vote in this community's history faces voters just nine days hence.

At stake is the quality and quantity of education and possibly the jobs of eight staff members at Sunol Glen School.

The 150 students in grades kindergarten through eight are now supported by a tax rate of $2.07 per $100 assessed valuation. A simple majority approval of the measure on the May 27 ballot would increase the rate to $2.50 in 1975-76.

Superintendent-Principal George Bury has said that two full-time teachers, a nurse, librarian and part-time teacher and two or three classified staff members will probably have to be cut if the measure doesn't pass.

Such a result could force the one-school district into again considering annexation to a neighboring district.

Bury says that "during the past few years our school has been able to maintain an educational program of which our citizens have been proud. An increase at this time in local taxes for our school will maintain that quality program."

As costs of supplies and services continue to climb steadily, annual adjustments to the revenue limit are only a fraction of the increased costs. Thus, our local school falls further behind. This will lead to cuts in the educational program.

According to figures released by Bury, the Sunol Glen tax rate of $2.50 (if passed) is 21 cents less than that of Pleasanton Elementary and $1.18 below the Murray Elementary School District rate.

A citizens committee chaired by Preston Ledbetter has organized a series of coffeees to advance the cause of the measure.

This is the first tax increase vote in the Sunol area in 19 years, the last one passing by a 68-38 margin.

Stoneridge shopping center holds key to overpasses

PLEASANTON—This city could wind up with an overpass at Stoneridge Drive and Interstate 680, plus anything from a pedestrian crossing to a full interchange at the W. Las Positas confluence with that freeway. But neither project, together with "a lot of our other municipal goodies," is going to happen if the Stoneridge Regional Center is not built.

Pulling together some recent council pronouncements with "a few facts of life," City Manager Wm. Edgar draws this picture of the city in relation to I-680 and its environs:

Development of the Stoneridge shopping center "is moving ahead as scheduled, and without regard to completion of the Stoneridge Drive overpass." On the other hand, it is clear that elimination of that east-west city passage, along with "a number of other reversals we've been experiencing lately," could be the final blow that sinks the regional center's ship.

A second crossing "of one kind or another" is also possible (and perhaps soon to be made city policy) at W. Las Positas. The key to this project is a Redevelopment District that would be able to sell bonds "up to $15 million in total," and thereby "make a big dent in our accumulated capital improvement deficit," Edgar said. But again, that Redevelopment District would look to all new assessed value added since late 1974, and "for all intents and purposes that means the regional center."

The Stoneridge Drive overpass would be financed through an agreement enacted by the city council and the developers of Stoneridge properties, diverting up to half of the sales tax revenue from that new regional center to retirement of the bonds. No other city tax revenues would be used in paying for that overpass.

"It is even possible, given the mechanism of each venture, that the Las Positas overcrossing, or even an interchange, could be started before the Stoneridge project," Edgar explains.

The Stoneridge overcrossing has one jump in that the state highway people (CalTrans) have agreed to design that job. The state will put up no money for that construction however, just as no state or federal funds are available "for 15 years or more" for any crossing of I-680 at W. Las Positas.

The Times also talked to Robert F. Eynck, assistant to the general manager of Bayshore Properties, the developers who want to convert some 400 acres of Stoneridge land to commercial and residential uses.

"We are looking for a 1978 opening date for the first phase of the Stoneridge Center," Eynck said, adding however that "the nation's economy and other factors" can still disrupt that schedule. Completion of Interstate 580, to include a new interchange at Foothill Road, is one of the "essentials" that Eynck ties to the regional center. As to any other major access routes that are built into or near the Stoneridge Regional Center, Eynck says: "It will get down to what each tenant (in that center) wants before he will sign a lease. The less we offer, the fewer major tenants we will attract, and therefore the poorer center we will finally develop."

Eynck also noted that there were "traffic problems" outside the regional center's immediate interest but that still must concern the city. "Nobody wants to wind up with another 'crisis corner' at Foothill and 580," Eynck said.

The city council is planning a public hearing to further explain the Stoneridge overcrossing agreement, and will soon have public meetings also on the priority list for the Redevelopment District that would include the Stoneridge properties, the Youth Sports Park on Hopyard Road, and all of the downtown area.

Assessed valuation on the rise in valley

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND—Pleasanton and Livermore will experience modest increases in their total assessed valuation, according to figures released Thursday by Alameda County Assessor Don Hutchinson.

The 1975-76 estimate for Livermore is $139,049,000 (which does not include public utilities). That figure is approximately nine percent greater than the July 1, 1974 figure.

The estimate for Pleasanton is $115,441,000, which is an increase of seven percent over the previous year.

Before growth slowed down in the valley, the annual assessed value jump for Pleasanton and Livermore was around 20 percent annually.

The 1975-76 estimates reflect what modest growth has occurred and also are influenced by inflation.

Mori to speak on refugee camp

DUBLIN—Fresh from his return trip to Camp Pendleton's "Tent City" for Vietnamese refugees, Valley Assemblyman Floyd Mori will address this Wednesday's Dublin Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

The freshman legislator, a member of the Education, Revenue and Taxation, Labor Relations and Economic Development Committees, and the Permanent Subcommittee on Industrial Safety, will speak on the legislative process and current legislation.

State delays bid opening for I-580 construction

The State of California has delayed the scheduled bid opening for the $110 million widening of Interstate 580 until May 28.

Originally, the bids were set to be opened May 21. Apparently, the state and federal governments are still attempting to work out a settlement with the Sierra Club, which has filed an environmental lawsuit to block the project.

For nearly two weeks, an agreement has been rumored to be "close" but no such announcement has been made and it appears the state wants to insure there is sufficient time before the bids are opened to settle that suit out of court if possible.

Livermore's Jim Mills earns national fame with $13,000 Vietnam rescue mission

LIVERMORE—Jim Mills is a dynamic man. If his hearty handshake and outgoing manner alone don't convince you, perhaps the fact that he singlehandedly delivered more than 100 Vietnamese to safety in Guam over the past three weeks will.

So impressed was Time Magazine's Hong Kong correspondent with Mills that he spent 15 hours with the Livermore man while in China, discussing politics and philosophy and filing a story on how Mills accomplished his mission.

That article appears in the May 19 issue of Time.

Not only is Mills a dynamic man, but he's a man of strong principles as well. He went over to Vietnam with $10,000 in his pocket (he later had $3,000 more wired) to see what he could do because he was concerned about the people.

"You just have to have enough intestinal fortitude to go ahead and try, that's all," explained Mills in the safety of a Livermore restaurant after his return last week.

"When a guy's in trouble, help him. What's the point of being on this planet if we can't help our fellow man?" he wondered.

"I went over there to get something done and if I got burned, well, what the hell."

Mills, who lives with his wife Jeri, four children (the youngest, Jeremy, was born while he was away) and in-laws on 25 acres off Greenville Road, owns Mills Transportation in Newark and J&J Service Company in Union City. He spent six months in Viet Nam during 1967 on a civilian contract as an aircraft maintenance engineer.

In the course of his conversations with the Time correspondent, both the journalist's and Mill's political philosophies and opinions of modern day American were expressed.

"I think we're developing into a nation of conversationalists instead of performers, and it's kind of hurting us," observed Mills.

"I got into that with David (Aikman, the reporter) and his concern was that nobody wanted to take a stand. No Americans are sure of their convictions. They won't stand up and make their point known. I agree with him."

"Maybe there's room for people who are Americans who strongly feel about the American way of life and want to make their opinions known to take a stand," Mills offered.

At one point in his adventures, when he and 58 of his wards were fighting deportation from Hong Kong back to Bangkok, they were visited by an American congressional party.

Looking at the "Mills Family," as they were dubbed by the China press, ranging in age from two to 66 and dressed in clothes bought for them by the Livermore good Samaritan, one of the officials observed, "They don't look like refugees."

"I said, 'that's my point—they're not. They are people who believed in us and it cost them everything they had, including their country,'" was Mills' answer.

Mills has a tremendous amount of respect for his country and as the saying goes, is proud to be an American.

"To me it's an absolutely amazing fact that you can take 220 million individuals and create a form of government that allows each of us to retain our individuality and generally speaking, to live together harmoniously. You have to appreciate what a miracle that is."

"America is a miracle," Mills, who has lived in Livermore for the past seven years, loves the town but admits he "wonders sometimes" about the negativism often displayed by the community when it comes to matters such as smog and the economy.

"If you develop a positive attitude and are convinced there is a way, you can move ahead. If you are negative, you can beat yourself down. Let's look for solutions, let's start moving. That's how you beat anything," observed the man who outwitted more than one foreign government and saved one hundred lives.

Sections of First Street to be closed

LIVERMORE—That section of First Street between Junction and Portola avenues will be closed to through traffic from 7 p.m. Tuesday through noon Wednesday, the city resident engineer has announced.

The recommended detour for those traveling out of town is Junction Avenue to Enos Way and on to Portola Avenue, which then connects to First Street. The detour is reversed for those coming into town (Portola to Enos to Junction and back onto First).

The roadblock is being put up in order to construct the new Southern Pacific track crossing grade (adjacent to the existing Western Pacific Railroad grade crossing)

Free newspapers?

Editor, The Times:
It has always been my impression that the Valley Times is a free newspaper, delivered to me at no charge. If this is true, why then does my delivery boy come by each month "collecting?"

Are these carriers paid by the paper, plus whatever they can collect on the side, or do they make just whatever they can collect?

If the paper is free, I do not feel there should be any type of collection. If the paper is subscription, then everyone who wants it should pay the same amount. Either way, it should be spelled out to the customers in black and white just what is going on.

Water facilities, growth concern LAVWMA

DUBLIN — Whether water quality facilities should have the ability to accommodate future growth was one of the main topics of discussion at the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency's workshop Thursday.

A straw poll of the board revealed all but Don Miller, a Livermore councilman, believed the facilities should be able to handle future growth.

LAVWMA member Ron Hyde, who represents the Valley Community Services District, said, "It seems to me we have a responsibility, as public officials, not to spend funds to build a project that is going to be obsolete in a very short time."

Hyde and LAVWMA member Joyce LeClaire, a Pleasanton councilwoman, expressed confidence that proposed mitigation measures to clean up the air would eventually be effective.

Miller, however, disagreed. "If you build a larger facility on the assumption things are going to be better in 10 years and they don't get better," he said, "you will be worse off with air quality."

LAVWMA Chairman Lila Euler, who also represents VCSD, said, "If you are going to control growth, you should do it by the size of your (sewer) plant, not by the size of the pipe." (One of the project alternatives being considered by LAVWMA is a pipeline which would connect with the East Bay Discharge Agency.)

Miller, however, said he has "zero faith in (the ability of) public agencies to protect the public in air quality." He believes whatever project the agency chooses should be sized for only a certain capacity.

Hyde expressed concern about the type of information that is being included in the $82,000 Environmental Impact Statement on the alternative projects. He cited such facts as a section that notes, if a reservoir is constructed, grasslands will be lost under water. "I didn't know that," Hyde said facetiously. "Is this really what the Environmental Protection Agency is looking for?" The EPA's representative at the workshop, Peter Perez, said yes.

"This is the kind of boondoggling that upsets me so much," Hyde replied. "It's just generalities. Any fifth grade class could have written it in a week."

Comments voiced at the three-hour workshop and those submitted to LAVWMA's consultants in writing will be assimilated into the final EIS, which will then be printed for distribution and for consideration at a public hearing.

Amador group mulls smoking

A committee of parents, teachers, students and administrators from the Amador Valley Joint High School District will hold their initial meeting Tuesday to review legislation on smoking areas at high schools.

Committee members, and all residents of the district interested, will gather at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Pleasanton Elementary School library.

At a board of trustees meeting May 13, the committee was formed in order to review Senate Bill 171 (Sen. Arlen Gregorio, Half Moon Bay) permitting school boards to adopt rules and regulations permitting smoking on the high school campuses. This committee is being asked to determine the ramifications of this legislation.

Panelists are asked to come to the meeting with a list of three to five obvious advantages and disadvantages of this legislation.

Parent members of the committee are Margaret Reische, Barbara Figone, Barbara Hemphill, Diane Zavanove, Carolyn Mather and Mona Wolford. Teacher members are Kathy Ryan, Wayne Re, Linda Alexander, Jerry Wilfley, Joan Baysdorfer and John Lupoi. Student members are Phil Dimberio, Vandy Moreno, Art Brannan, Carol Klein, Michelle Thibault and Jeannie Bristow.

Volunteers from the community are Mabel Bromberg, Carl Walter and Rose Roach while administrators on the committee are Clark Thayne (Foothill), Roger Dabney (Amador) and Dick Parks (Dublin).

Under current statutory and regulatory provisions of law the use and possession of tobacco products by pupils on high school grounds are prohibited. Additionally, use of same on school grounds constitute "good cause" for suspension or expulsion of students.

The bill permits each local school district to consider setting up one area for smoking at each high school campus.

Blackhawk too much for sewers

Leshner News Bureau
MARTINEZ — On the eve of a Superior Court trial contesting the environmental desirability of the Blackhawk Ranch development, sewer officials are warning they may not be able to serve it.

In a letter to the Board of Supervisors, G.A. Horstkotte, general manager of the Central Contra Costa Sanitary District, warns "the Board of Directors can make no guarantee of full service to this development or others in the future."

However, Blackhawk President Robert Carrau was not concerned by the letter, which he said he had not seen.

Horstkotte's letter was addressed to the approval by the county Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) of Blackhawk's proposed reorganization, including annexation to the sanitary district.

Existing and pending state and federal regulations relating to air quality within the county and governing sewer services were cited by Horstkotte as the reason for the district's warning.

But Carrau noted the district has already voted to initiate annexation of the 4,200-unit Danville development, which it wouldn't do if it lacked service capacity.

Blackhawk is being challenged, along with the county, by a Superior Court suit filed by Amigos de Diablo, People for Open Space and the Sierra Club.

'Kin Ki Ya Wa' honored

Camp Fire Girls hit the big time

LIVERMORE — Remember that 12-year-old girl who rang your doorbell last Halloween asking for a tooth-paste boxtop instead of candy?

All those Colgate-Palmolive "votes" collected by six Campfire Girls have earned the local group national honors.

Trick-or-treating for box-tops turned out to be a great gimmick. The girls collected 231 signed "votes" on Halloween night alone.

The "Kin Ki Ya Wa" group, as they are called, won $100 from Colgate-Palmolive for their ingenuity. Like all participating youth groups, the national Campfire organization will receive $20,000 from Colgate-Palmolive. Another $1,000 will be divided among participating organizations according to how many votes they collected in all.

Kin Ki Ya Wa Camp Fire Girls were the only seventh grade group in Livermore at the time they entered the contest. Mrs. Ruth Hauschildt is their leader.

They'll be doing a little crowing at their upcoming "Wo-He-Lo-Rama," the annual Camp Fire Girls gathering, which is planned for Saturday, May 31, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at The Barn. Members from the Valley will be taking part and the public is invited.

Camp Fire Girls is a youth service organization which began in 1910. Before its founding, there were no national organizations for girls of all nationalities, races and creeds.

Dr. and Mrs. Luther H. Gulick of Maine, founders, had run a family camp in Connecticut for many years but by 1910 they had 17 girls to care for and moved to the woods of Maine.

Mrs. Gulick called the camp "Wo-He-Lo" for the work-health-love that all the girls shared, and she started the ceremony still used by modern-day Camp Fire Girls.

William C. Langdon of Telford, Vt., knew the work of the Gulicks. He was organizing a town pageant to honor the 150th anniversary of his town, including the Boy Scouts in the festivities, and some of the girls asked for parts too.

That prompted Langdon to set up a group he called "Camp Fire Girls." He set up three ranks of achievement which are still followed today: Wood Gatherer, Fire Maker and Torch Bearer.

He appointed a group leader whom he called Guardian of the Fire.

The Gulicks and William

Langdon thought of forming a national organization to help girls develop into capable and creative women. Mrs. Gulick signed the incorporation papers in Washington, D.C. in 1912. Since then, thousands of girls have joined local chapters throughout the country.

The first national service project was carried out during World War I when members sent "bundles to Belgian babies" overseas.

Many such projects followed. The girls are now involved in a national Clean up America campaign and are getting ready for a big bicentennial celebration in the coming months.

Camp Fire colors are red, white and blue. The law is: "Worship God. Seek beauty. Give service. Pursue knowledge. Be trustworthy. Hold onto health. Glorify work. Be happy."

The Livermore seventh-grade group has been together since second grade, when all were "Bluebirds," the first level of Camp Fire Girls. The group's name, "Kin Ki Ya Wa," means "Happy, loving friends."

Their ceremonial gowns are a project undertaken in seventh grade, when the group chooses a cultural theme and incorporates Camp Fire symbols into the garment made by hand.

Campouts, trips and many local service projects including planting trees and making favors for hospitalized children, are some of the recent activities of the Livermore girls.

Planners to consider batch plants

HAYWARD — The Alameda County Planning Commission will hold a public hearing Monday to determine whether asphalt batch plants should be permitted in conjunction with quarry or sand and gravel pit permits.

The proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance was prompted by Lone Star Industries' application to construct a batch plant.

The planning commission meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Disciplinarian with an open door Dublin High principal Bob Hagler

DUBLIN — Bob Hagler sees himself as a disciplinarian whose office door is always open and whose staff he believes is "honest and open with the kids and I think they realize that."

Hagler's position of Dublin High School principal places him in the challenging position of leading the most transient secondary school in the valley.

During the past school year, 325 students have transferred out and 175 transferred in. This means that Hagler and his assistant principals and staff of counselors must constantly readjust as some classes drop in enrollment and others gain.

But Hagler, who is completing his first year as a high school principal and is a 15-year veteran of the Amador Valley High School District, looks at the day-to-day "surprises" as stimulating and a test of the administrative skills he is versed in.

"I think I was fortunate to become principal at this school as I know the classified staff, teachers and department heads," Hagler adds. "Without a good secretary, the job would be almost impossible to accomplish."

"The one thing I miss from past experience as vice principal is the day-to-day contact. You just don't have the chance to maintain as close a contact as when you're vice-principal. I go out on campus whenever I can and rarely have any student try to avoid me," Hagler states. "Oh, there's the occasional one who'll walk by looking straight ahead but you'll find them on most any campus."

A stellar college basketball performer at St. Mary's, Hagler came to the Amador district as head basketball coach and social studies teacher in 1960. He became Dean of Students at Amador in the mid-sixties and then was elevated to assistant principal under Don Landers when Dublin was formed.

Hagler sees his position as one with "a lot more responsibility than a person looking in from the outside realizes. When I was vice principal I didn't feel the end responsibility that you do as top man. Don (Landers, current principal of Foothill High) really gave me a free hand and I have benefited as a result."

"There are so many small details that the casual observer doesn't realize," continues Hagler. It was very interesting to sit down with the teachers and work with the budget," he notes.

AAUW names fellowship in honor of Charlotte Severin

Charlotte Severin of Pleasanton has been recognized with a $500 fellowship named in her honor by the Livermore-Pleasanton branch of the American Association of University Women.

For each contribution of $500 to the association's national fellowship fund, a branch is given the opportunity to name the fellowship for an outstanding branch member or community worker. In naming their contribution for Charlotte Severin, the local branch honored her both for her outstanding service to the community and to AAUW.

In addition to serving as president of the AAUW branch for two years, Charlotte is also a state officer serving as chairwoman of the study topic "Media: Issues in Communications."

Her community work in the field of the cultural arts is well known. She was instrumental in creating Pleasanton's Cultural Arts Council, and currently serves as its president. Her efforts now are directed at making the Cultural Arts Center in Pleasanton a reality.

Charlotte is also co-chairman of the Pleasanton Bicentennial Committee.

An accomplished artist, she holds a degree in nursing, and is a substitute nurse in Pleasanton and Livermore schools.

The national AAUW awards fellowships to outstanding American and International women for advanced, usually toward the doctor's degree.

AAUW President Dawn Gordner pins an appreciation corsage on fellowship honoree Charlotte Severin.

Hospital Week

Volunteers care

Russel Calkins is a research chemist by day and the librarian one evening a week at the Pleasanton Convalescent Hospital.

Why such divergent roles for a man who also bicycles 12 miles to work and back before coming to the convalescent hospital?

"It is a satisfying experience," he explains. "There are many residents whose view of the outside world is solely through the eyes of a book. Reading helps to pass the long hours for those confined to bed."

"As I take the book cart around I come to know many residents quite well, and I look forward to seeing them each week. Often there is time to stop and visit, and I feel that we both benefit."

Calkins is one of 22 adults who do volunteer work at the convalescent hospital, but the only man.

"We have far fewer male residents than female, but that does not diminish the need of those men to talk and reminisce with male volunteers," says Mrs. Evelyn King, the hospital's activities coordinator. "There is a certain rapport that men establish only with men."

Mrs. King is aware that men have less time for volunteer experiences than do women. "But that is changing as men retire earlier and are healthy longer," she says. "Working men could give a few hours on a Saturday or Sunday if they were really serious about meeting a community need."

The theme of National Hospital Week which closes today is "We care — you care." Nursing homes welcome the personal touch volunteers bring to the lives of residents.

The Junior Volunteer Auxiliary of the Pleasanton Convalescent Hospital accepts responsibility for visiting and personal service to residents, assisting nursing aides, planning parties, decorating for the holidays, and doing some clerical tasks.

Mertes' case FOR college

"I see a woman as being and becoming," Dr. Barbara Mertes stated at a meeting of the Las Positas Chapter of the American Business Women's Association.

"That view is humanistic; it requires self-assessment and self-awareness; it is honest. The opportunities for educational growth are available now."

A recent survey printed by the Chicago Tribune indicates that college-educated people have better salaries, more opportunity, and better chances for advancement," said Dr. Mertes. She encouraged all of those present to include a continuing education in their future plans.

Dr. Mertes quoted from Eleanor Roosevelt to make her point:

"It was not until I reached middle age that I had the courage to develop interests of my own. Almost at once, I began to discover that interests leads to interest, knowledge leads to more knowledge, the capacity for understanding grows with the effort to understand."

Dr. Mertes observed that "research has shown that even limited college education gives evidence of having put it together."

She is delighted at the unexpected enrollment of people recently out of high school. The college had expected a large number of returning students, she said, but not the large number of recent high school graduates who enrolled.

In describing several of the many courses available at Chabot College, Dr. Mertes emphasized the "open lab" method of placing the student where he or she is educationally. By administering diagnostic tests, a counselor can recommend courses which enable the student to avoid needless classes not related to specific objectives and needs.

Dr. Mertes announced that the college is being geared to meet educational requirements of specific employment here in the valley. The autumn schedule is available at all valley high schools, public libraries and at the Valley Campus.

As part of her presentation,

Volunteer librarian Russel Calkins with Mrs. Wyrly Jacobsen, resident at Pleasanton Convalescent Hospital.

$28,000 for city repaving

LIVERMORE — A total of $28,000 worth of asphalt and concrete paving is being recommended for Murrieta Boulevard west of Fenton Street and on El Caminito between Holmes Street and Wagoner Drive.

The projects are proposed by the public works department and if they receive council approval, will begin next month, according to Public Works Director Dan Lee.

Another $6,000 to $7,000 of asphalt sealing will be proposed but there are no areas listed for that project as yet.

The re-paving projects are annual spring programs, according to City Manager Bill Parness.

Times Editorial Page

In order to allow for a full expression of this important statement on "The Vietnam refugees in our country," The Times Editorial Page is being devoted exclusively to Pat Widder's report. The columns and editorial commentary usually seen on this page will return on Wednesday.

Curiosity overcame this little boy's shyness

The daily chores of life still need doing

Marines and children in a spontaneous "keep a way" game played with the leathernecks' hats

The refugee's life — waiting and hoping

CAMP PENDLETON — A feeling of cautious optimism and a sense of hope, sprinkled with the spontaneous laughter of children, pervade the Vietnamese refugee camp here.

There is anxiety to be sure and some homesickness for the more than 18,000 refugees who fled their war-torn country and who do not know what to expect from their new home. But the feeling is good. They are willing to work and they are willing to try.

Assemblyman Floyd Mori visited the camp Wednesday — the first California legislator to do so — and he was visibly impressed by the organization and efficiency of the operation and, more important, by the spirit of the people who left everything behind to begin a new life in "Freedom Land."

Mori went to Camp Pendleton as an Asian American and as a state legislator. He left with a good feeling "about the humanistic attitude of the military," the conditions in the camp and the type of people who will become the newest Americans.

However, he questioned the effectiveness of the private sponsorship program and believes the federal government should aid in developing a "mechanism to get these people into society." Mori is "convinced" the refugees will not have the kind of impact on the American unemployment picture that many have feared.

Set in the scrub oak valleys of southern California, the tent city — or, more accurately, tent cities — are a logistics miracle.

The U.S. Marine Corps received word on April 28 that the refugees were on their way and, within 24 hours, the first three of seven camp areas were ready for occupancy. The Marines worked day and night erecting more than 1,000 tents, setting up cots and gathering bedding, linens, first aid kits, clothing and recreation equipment for the new arrivals.

Many of the Marines here served in Vietnam and an effort was made to locate Marines who could speak Vietnamese, French and Cambodian, although the great majority of adults in the camp can speak English.

There is an obvious love affair between the Marines and the children and, throughout the camps, Marines can be seen playing checkers and other organized and spontaneous games with the small fry.

Each of the seven camps has an American commander and a Vietnamese counterpart who operate the camp. The system appears to be working well and, in some areas, the Marine commanders have turned over many of the functions to the Vietnamese.

Wednesday was a cloudy day in the camp but many of the refugees wore military field jackets (provided by the Marines) because sultry as it was, the weather is far colder than what they are used to in Vietnam. Particularly at night, when temperatures drop to the 50's, they get cold and many have found it difficult to sleep.

Although the tents have lights, they are not heated and the Marines said socks are in great demand. "Many people have donated clothing," they said, "but no one ever thinks of giving socks. We really need socks."

When the refugees arrive at the camp, they go through the processing center, where the periodic boom of a distant artillery range can be heard in the background.

There, they are fingerprinted, photographed, assigned social security numbers and put in touch with the Immigration and Naturalization Department and numerous volunteer agencies, such as the Red Cross and American Catholic Relief Society, which aid them in finding sponsors.

To date, slightly more than 7,000 refugees have been processed out of the camp but all of those were either Americans or had American relatives.

Those remaining in the camp (and at refugee centers in Arkansas and Florida) must undergo a rigorous security check before they can be released to sponsors.

That security check consists of review by the FBI, CIA, Defense Department, State Department and drug enforcement agencies. It is a lengthy process and no remaining refugees have yet been cleared.

Those who are denied clearance will have the opportunity to appeal but military and volunteer agency officials admitted they really don't know what will be done with refugees who are deemed to be undesirable.

For the children, the camp is a novel experience but for many of the adults who have been there for up to two weeks, the novelty is wearing off. Waiting is the hardest part and they are eager to get going, to get settled, start looking for work and begin a new life.

Many of the refugees have either studied in America or visited it before but those who have never seen this country wonder if all of America is scrub oak valleys and ridges dotted with mustard weed.

They are isolated and some asked if the Marines could organize bus trips so they could see the ocean and the cities in southern California to get a feel for the country. The Marines agree that would help break the monotony of waiting but say it constitutes a security problem. "These people haven't been cleared by immigration and, if there were an accident, it could be bad."

The sponsorship program has been less than a roaring success to date as only about 400 sponsors (who would handle about 1,500 refugees) have been found. But, calls are coming in hourly at the camp as potential sponsors offer their help.

A sponsor agrees to back a family (which with the Asian tradition of extended families can mean many people) until they find housing, employment, etc. The commitment is moral and not legal, however.

And so, the waiting goes on but even as they wait, life goes on. Schools have been organized, religious services (Buddhist, Catholic and Protestant) are held. The Salvation Army gives clothing to the new arrivals and the Marines have set up a clothing PX where long lines of refugees wait to purchase clothes.

Camp Pendleton T-shirts and those field jackets are the common denominator of dress. Many of the children are called "walking jackets" because they are all but invisible inside those bulky olive drab coats.

After more than six hours of wandering through the camp, talking with people, watching their games and assimilating a plethora of visual impressions, Assemblyman Mori left with a good feeling but with some questions.

He will most likely make a report to the California Legislature on those impressions and, in that report, will urge federal agencies to "take a more positive role in sponsoring" the refugees to facilitate their move into American society.

Mori is firmly convinced the refugees will not have a significant adverse impact on employment. A total of 61 percent of those at Camp Pendleton now are under 25 years old. The majority of the present refugees are professionals, doctors, lawyers, teachers, and former government employees.

Many of those still in the "pipeline" in Guam, however, are farmers and peasants and some of the refugees already in America turn their noses up at those "peasants" and sniff. "They're not the kind of people who should have come."

At Camp Pendleton, however, everyone is treated equally. Former Premier Ky and Saikam Khoy, the last acting President of Cambodia are living in tents (24 to 30 in each one) and waiting in chow lines like everyone else.

Mori said his greatest concern is for the teenagers, many of whom face a language barrier their parents have overcome. On the whole, however, he said, "I found them eager to do their part. They don't want to live off the fat of the land. They're eager to do something and that shows in their participation in the functions of the camp community."

To the refugees, America is indeed the land of opportunity — as has been the case through the years with refugees from other nations. They have chosen freedom. But for most of them the choice was not an easy one.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Others will be surprised today when you analyze things on the spot and give them the right answers. They're still trying to understand the problem.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You have a tendency today to let things go till the last minute. But you'll squeeze under the wire in the nick of time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Hope you have a little extra in the freezer at home today to take care of some unexpected guests around dinnertime.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Keep this evening's plans flexible. Be free to do something "fun" that may come up at the last minute.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Someone you've been out of touch with lately but who's been on your mind will be contacting you with very interesting news.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
By being alert today you may be able to pick up something of value to you personally that others have overlooked or ignored.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
It's to your advantage today to let yourself drift with the tide till you see the right opportunity to grab the brass ring.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Today you'll get some confidential information you'll be able to put to good use in furthering an ambitious aim.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
The best opportunities for gain continue to come through your more progressive contacts. Avoid conferring with people who think "status quo."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
An unusual idea may flash through your mind today. Don't discount it because it's a departure from your normal way of operating.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Be a good listener. Someone you'll be talking to can furnish you with a new, valuable point of view.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Don't be afraid to apply new and untried methods to an old task. You could develop some step-savers that will serve you well.

FOURTEEN YEAR OLD CASEY WESTON WILL DUPLICATE THIS FEAT AT THE RODEO

Cossack Riders ready for Rodeo

LIVERMORE — Seven highly talented riders from California's Central Valley and one pint-sized and captivating mascot ranging in age from six years to sweet 17 will entertain Livermore Rodeo fans between rides and roping during the annual event scheduled this year for June 7th and 8th.

Six-year-old Jowall Ellerman, a blue-eyed blonde who rides a black and white pinto mare called Misty, is the mascot of the group which calls itself The Cossack Riders, and who will be making their debut on the Rodeo Cowboys of America circuit this spring.

Youngest of the riding members of this teen-aged and younger troupe is ten-year-old Fawn Ellerman, and the oldest is Debbie Moore, an elderly brunette who is just 17. The troupe includes six girls and one boy, and all are first cousins, except Casey Weston, who joined the Cossacks during the early stages of their training, and who has been trick riding the longest. The Cossacks started from scratch, working in roping saddles with gunny sacks replacing the Hippodrome straps needed for their act.

When a more serious interest in the show developed, they searched for trick riding saddles, and found some which had become collectors' items. Three already belonged to the Ellerman family, and other friends, well-versed in the world of horses, produced the others.

The Cossacks now have in their tack room a pair of saddles which once belonged to one Nancy Shepherd, one of the best known of all trick riders, and Betty Saylor, who ranks right up there with the top equestriennes of all time.

The youngsters started with the basic tricks, and, with hours of practice, became accomplished in their art.

Now, using their own horses, the children are real professionals. To develop their own physical dexterity, they take a weekly tumbling class which helps endow them with the agility of the bull dancers of ancient Crete.

Their activities are not, however, confined to their trick riding. Instead, their activities include school sports, 4-H Club activities, Future Farmers of America, church and Sunday school work. They hope to join the Fellowship of Christian Athletes during their tour this summer.

In addition to Jowall, the troupe includes Debbie, riding a palomino gelding named Son. Typical of the group, she is president of the junior class at Elk Creek High School, and a song leader. She cooks, sews, plays the piano, is a trick roper, and one day plans to become an attorney.

Matte Ellerman, a blue-eyed blonde, at 16 leads off the routines on a sorrel mare named Touch of Venus. She is on the honor roll in the junior class at Elk Creek High School, and competes in junior rodeo events, including pole bending, goat typing, barrel racing, breakaway and team roping. She sews, beads, draws cartoons, and plans to attend Cal Poly or Fresno State University.

Casey Weston, the old pro of the organization, and the only non-cousin, rides a gelding named Chub, and has been trick riding since she was eight on the same horse. She is 14, and in the eighth grade at Los Molinos Elementary School. Her hobbies are skiing and swimming.

Pleasanton splits in Seattle soccer semis

SEATTLE — A comeback victory and a heartbreaking defeat — both in overtime — will send one Pleasanton Ballistic United soccer team home for good and the other into the finals of the United States Youth Soccer Association Challenge Cup Western Region Finals.

The Under 14's, worn down by superior manpower and 20 minutes of overtime, finally succumbed to the CWA Oilers on the eighth penalty kick at Robinswood Park in a Seattle suburb yesterday, in what coach Bob Stewart called a "fine performance."

The Under-12's had better luck, coming up with a goal five minutes into the second overtime after blowing a 2-0 lead with only ten minutes left in regulation play to score a 3-2 win over DJ Federal Way.

Federal Way, state champions for three straight years in different age groups, had won 123 straight matches coming into the semifinal but fell to Pleasanton's "strongest game all year long."

David Croteau and Mark Deleray teamed up for two of the three Under-12 goals and Mark Clay assisted on Todd Moore's score for the Pleasanton goals, with Croteau's second strike the deciding blow.

Coach Harry Miller credited Darren Hicks and Edward Kinyon with fine games but admitted Pleasanton let down slightly to allow Federal Way to come back to tie.

The Under-14's twice gave up goals in the last two minutes or otherwise might have won. With 1:45 in regulation CWA's Clyde George lofted a corner kick that slipped through for an easy head shot to tie it at 1-1 and with one minute left in overtime, George tied it at 2-2 on a breakaway.

Dennis Miller (with help from Kirk Ackerman) got Pleasanton on the scoreboard first and Mark Fish punched in a goal in overtime after a pass from Scott Wise.

Under-19 Neutrons power past Rangers

With Dave Anderson providing the offensive punch and Dan Pegan playing a sparkling defensive game, the Livermore Under-19 Neutrons won a hard fought 2-0 victory over the Oregon Rangers yesterday at Livermore's Robertson Stadium.

Anderson scored both of the Neutron goals in the second half but it was the outstanding defensive effort by Pegan that sewed up the Neutron victory.

The Neutrons will face the winner of the Nevada-Southern California game next weekend in the semifinals of the California Youth Soccer Association Junior Challenge Cup in Los Angeles.

After a first half of missed shots and generally sluggish play, the Neutrons exploded for two quick goals at the outset of the second half. With only one minute gone, Ted Wood took an indirect kick and deflected it off a Ranger defenseman. Anderson gathered up the ball and chipped in the righthand corner from five yards out to put the Neutrons on top 1-0.

Just five minutes later Mike Ramil lobbed a long pass to Anderson as he streaked through the Ranger defense. After momentarily bobbling the ball, Anderson regained control and fired home a shot from 15 yards out.

As Neutron coach John Young pointed out, the Livermore squad settled into a defensive game after those two goals and sat on the lead until the final whistle.

Young singled out Anderson, Pegan, Kevin Lennon, the Neutron goalie, and inside Danny Payne, who came close to scoring on several occasions, during the course of the afternoon.

Harris' double caps Allied rally

John Harris' bases loaded double in the fifth inning underscored a five-run rally as Allied Brokers broke away from the Pleasanton Jaycees, 7-3 in Pleasanton National senior league baseball.

Harris and Kurt Millar both drove in two runs for the winners.

Ed McMillin went the rout on the mound, giving up seven base hits. Mitch Pereira stole five bases.

Elby rallied for four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to edge past Irby's, 5-4. Chris Gackle had two hits for the winners. The Pirates' Chris Elbert also had two hits. Ed Nakagawa, Joe Earnshaw and Charles Padagan were involved in a double play.

The Triple A Padres bombed the Pirates, 19-2. Mark Dubord had two doubles. The Pirates socked the Double A Padres, 16-2. Jim Ghidossi drove in three runs, and Graham Alexander, two.

In Single A, the Pirates scored six times in the final two innings for a 6-2 decision. Steve Woodfill's two-run double was the key to a four-run sixth inning rally. Will Hayes doubled twice.

Pleasanton American

Groth Bros. jumped away to a 4-1 lead after an inning in the Pleasanton American major leagues last week, and held on to beat McKay and Soms, 6-5.

Alan Liddel and George Barks combined to check the Indians on three hits. The only damaging one was Keith McClosky's three-run homer in the second inning.

Joe Drago drove in two runs in the first inning for the Twins with a double.

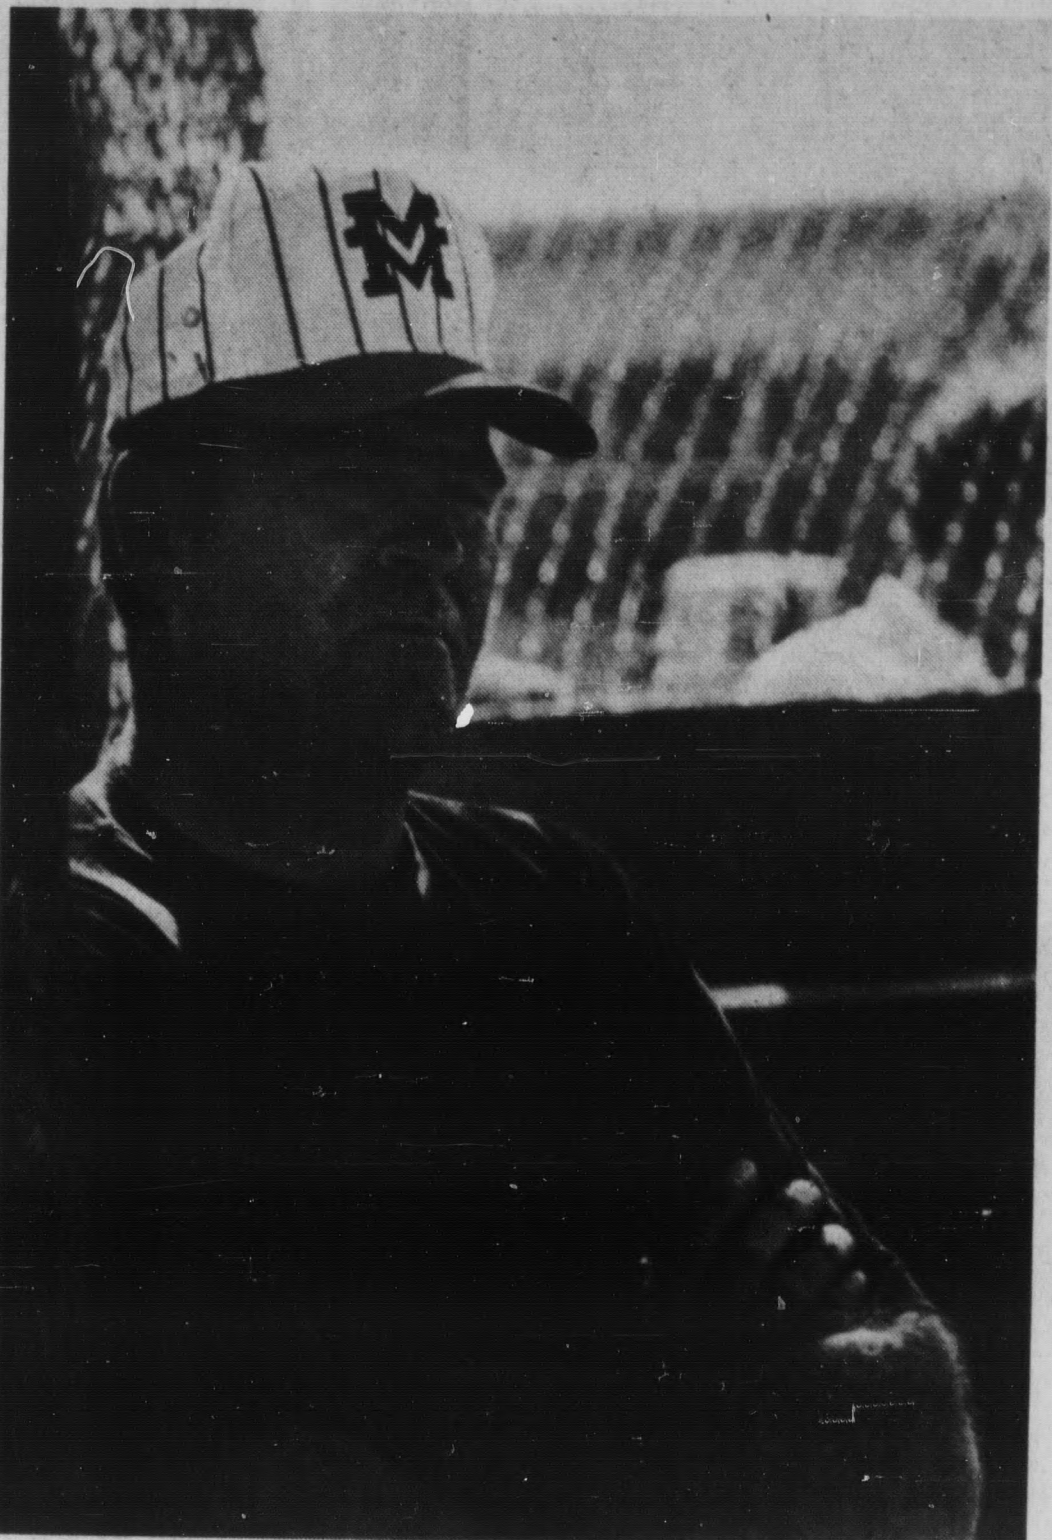

Copy Quick scored in every inning but the fourth to beat Crown Chevrolet, 9-5. Robert Gillick had two hits.

The Four A Red Carpet Realty Twins beat Pacific Coast Realty, 16-15. David Moore had two hits, and Kevin Coburn, one.

Triple A's Doan Lumber crushed Compton Sporting Goods, 11-3. Randy Isaacs and Mike Schnorr pitched the Twins to their eighth consecutive victory. Leonard Hanna drove in two runs.

Osborne Realty captured a 13-11 Double A triumph against Tafoya.

Richardson baffles MV, 4-0

GEORGE COCKERTON SENDS LASER BEAM TOWARD RIGHT FIELD

Wayne Perry's sun-field home run prompted George's disgust

Quick, somebody administer a blood test and determine once and for all whether Keith Richardson is the Bionic blood-brother of the Six Million Dollar Man.

Take an X-ray of that priceless right arm and tell us if it's really sculptured from Kryptonite. Peek into the closet and see if Keith's underwear is monogrammed "Caped Crusader."

He's got to be putting some kind of Super Hero stuff on the ball to keep up the brutal pace.

Richardson worked his sixth consecutive game Friday when he shut out Monte Vista, 4-0, to vault Livermore into the EBAL league lead and drive the Mustangs into a dark corner.

Because of his gutty seven inning performance, Monte Vista must now play a make-up contest at Dublin Monday just to tie for the league crown. Then the Mustangs will have to play Livermore again on Tuesday to determine the champion.

Should it boil down to that, Livermore coach Kevin Drake will call on his Boy Wonder to pitch one more time. Richardson, who has a string of 14 scoreless innings working, would just as soon forget it.

"I need rest. I need rest," he smiled after walking off the field with a two-hit white-wash of the season-long EBAL leaders. "I'm a little sore right in here," Richardson said, pointing to the fold of his powerful pitching arm.

On 15 minutes notice Friday, Richardson made a dramatic start against the Mustangs. It was his third complete game in eight days, and it materialized in comic book fashion.

The announced starting pitcher, John Janzen, came up lame. Drake, "did a little scrambling," and sent the call to his weary ace in the Livermore dugout.

"John had a pain in the back of his shoulder, and he couldn't turn his neck," Richardson explained. "So the coach asked me how long I could throw, and I told him as much as he wanted."

Drake wasn't sure how long that would be. "I just told him to go as hard as he could for as long as he could," the Livermore coach revealed. "Then, if he got in trouble, we'd bring in the other kid and hope for the best. But I never thought of relieving Keith once."

Though he walked five Mustangs, Richardson never allowed a runner beyond second base. Both Monte Vista hits failed to reach the outfield. Seven Mustangs struck out.

"In the first inning I was tight, but then I got things going," said Richardson. "I was throwing pretty hard, but then I started to get weak, and when I do that, I start aiming the ball. That's the most guys I've walked this season."

"In the sixth and seventh I really got tired," Richardson said. But then, I just wanted to cook."

He did, setting down the final four batters in succession as Livermore jumped one-half game ahead of Monte Vista in the standings.

The Cowboys rocked Monte Vista's Chris Dudley for eight base hits, including five that went for extra bases. Wayne Perry lead the charge with 3-for-3, including a home run and triple. "Everyone finally came alive," Perry exulted in the post-game dugout. "I've been choking up on my bat, but today I decided to choke down because it's light. It seemed to help."

Perry knocked in two of the Cowboy runs. Robin Wilkerson fetched another with a sacrifice fly, while Dan Bernacil tripled to account for another tally. Rich Palmer mashed an awesome triple, and Dan Wood doubled for Livermore. Both scored after the blasts.

The outfield, especially left fielder Ken Watts, played flawless defense, initiating two double plays against the woeful Mustangs.

Monte Vista's Dudley was forced to make his second pitching start of the week, because the scheduled thrower, Don Blessen, suffered a serious ankle injury.

That leaves Monte Vista with just Dudley for a potentially long week upcoming.

To win the EBAL crown, the Mustangs must triumph Monday and Tuesday. Then, they would open play in the North Coast baseball championships Thursday.

If Monte Vista loses either Monday or Tuesday, Livermore will earn the NCS berth.

Wolves win on pinch triple

With the tensions of the championship death-struggle removed by a good 20 miles, and the knowledge that good high school baseball teams who do not win pennants are sometimes rewarded with invitations to play out the month of May in strange towns, San Ramon and Granada came at one another Friday afternoon in Danville.

San Ramon won the game in the bottom of the eighth inning, when pinch-hitter Kent Walters crashed a wrong field triple to score Carl Speck from first base, for a 3-2 final score.

After Kevin Finerty had gone out, Speck singled against Granada starter Steve Stone. Walters' drive moments later chased Keith Texiera to deep right field, allowing Speck plenty of time to reach home.

The victory assured San Ramon of no worse than a third place finish, as the Wolves came in at 6-4. And if Monte Vista should lose to Dublin in tomorrow's completion of their suspended 18-inning contest, the Danville schools will share second in the final standings.

The Wolves led, 2-0, after two innings Friday. Speck led off the SR first by striking out and reaching first when Stone's delivery went wild.

Speck moved up with the help of a bunt single by Ed Aitken, and came home on Tim Nelson's chopper to the left of second.

Matador second baseman Dave Spencer made a back-handed stop on the play, failing on the bag with his glove, then trying to double up Nelson as Speck scored.

In the second inning, after Ed Flanagan had reached an error by Granada shortstop Bill Jespersen, Mike Cary sent a single to right. Starting right fielder Ken Stayton fired to third to get Flanagan by inches.

Cary moved to second on the throw, and came home when next batter Dan Egbert singled to left.

Egbert started on the mound for San Ramon, and made it to the seventh inning with seven strikeouts and some excellent support in the field.

But the Matadors got Stone aboard to lead off the seventh, when his ground ball made it by Cary's glove at third base.

That brought up Steve Mincks, who had made his first plate appearance of the league season in the fifth inning. Mincks jerked a double down the left field line, scoring Stone and Jespersen to tie it.

Pools a good investment

"A swimming pool is something a family can enjoy for a pretty reasonable amount of money, and it's there to enjoy for years," says Charles Brendlinger, president of

Continental Pools of Livermore. Swimming pools used to be a luxury reserved strictly for the rich, but today, "almost anyone can afford one," said Brendlinger. Financing can be stretched out over a 15-year period in many cases. The average pool measures 15' x 35' x 8' deep, and costs approximately $7,000.

Families camp outdoors For new H.C. Elliott homes

Four families were so intent upon getting the house they wanted that they camped out overnight at the entrance to the sales office of H.C. Elliott's new Vintage Hills home development in Pleasanton.

The four were among many who had waited for more than a year for the Elliott company to build its Vintage Hills addition. Elliott's original Vintage Hills was sold out last year and additional building were unavailable.

During the grand opening weekend for the new development, where homes are priced from $45,950 to $58,950, 11 homes were sold and 540 people visited the sales office and four models. The 11 homes sold are valued at more than $650,000.

The opening weekend was slightly marred by a few picketing homeowners from the earlier Vintage Hills development. Elliott said some of the picketers had legitimate problems and those would be handled.

One of the families, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Degelman of Livermore camped out for two nights before the sales office opened on Saturday morning to assure they would get "the best lot available." The couple exchanged duties, Mrs. Degelman getting the cold outdoor cot on Thursday night, her husband sleeping out on Friday night. They were first in line when sales began. Their present home is Elliott-built.

Other families who spend the night before the grand opening outside at the subdivision were the George Cushings of Sunnyvale, David Walliszewskis of Pleasanton, and James Dempseys of Newark.

H.C. Elliott III, executive vice president of the home-building firm said "we are very pleased. This was one of our most successful grand openings in a number of years."

Home of the Week

Bruce Brown, manager of WOODREN REALTY's Livermore office, has a large number of fine valley home listings, but he is particularly enthusiastic about our "Home of the Week." The Livermore home has a great deal to talk about, especially the super large yard which amounts to two lots! The home itself is a popular two-story model with 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths and a separate rumpus room with huge fireplace. All this for $54,500, and it's close to the Lab. For details, call Bruce at WOODREN REALTY, 385 S. Livermore Ave., 443-2811.

Building showing activity

PLEASANTON — A modest flurry of new construction was recorded by the city's building department in the month of April. Permits for five single family homes were issued in that month, together with plans for 12 private swim pools, and nine minor commercial jobs.

Still leading the city's construction scene is the trend toward remodeling or adding to existing structures. There were 23 of those permits issued in the one month.

Total dollar value for all permits issued in April was $434,477, which produced just over $5500 in fees for all utility connections, services and inspections.

Calf Should Be Cooked Differently Than... Beef

- * Cook steaks and roasts "medium done" to avoid dry meat.
- * Brush steaks with melted fat during broiling or before pan-frying. This helps develop flavor.
- * Marinating or breading will enhance flavor.
- * Slow braising is recommended for cuts of chuck or round. (Brown in small amount of fat, then season, cover and cook slowly.)
